MUA Checklist

Below, I've put together a checklist for your kit that will maximize your success during this experience. This list includes some high-end products I love and some effective and affordable products that give you just as flawless results. Use what works for you. If you are a beginner, this list is a great guide for you to start building your kit. If you're intermediate to pro, then you can use this to check off your essentials.

If you have a travel makeup chair and travel lights that you use, please feel free to bring it. Oh, and don't forget your model!

Gracing Faces MUA Workshop Checklist

Tools	Brushes	I think the perfect set is by Jessup. They have both a 15 piece and 10 piece set. Purchase these from ebay.com . I also love Real Techniques and Bdeillum Tools.
	Cape	Used to drape your client and protect their clothes.
	Beauty blender sponge	Optional
	Towel	I use a towel to lay and clean my brushes on. It doesn't have to be a huge body towel! A medium size towel is good enough.
	Sharpener	You will especially need it for your lip pencils.
	Kleenex and Paper Towels	Have whole and cut paper towels. Cut your paper towels in quarters.
	Makeup Wipes	Walmart Equal brand is great!
	Lip Wands	I usually order these from Ebay, but Q-tips will work, too.
	Wedge Sponges	The CVS wedge sponges are my favorite.
	Brow Shaper
	Small scissors and tweezers	Usually for trimming lashes
	Cotton Balls and Q-tips
	Brush Cleaner	I use 91-99% alcohol and Parian Spirit for a quick clean.
	Hand Sanitizer
	Hair clips
	Mixing palette and spatula	Used for sanitary purposes. I use the spatula to dig out concealers and then place it on the mixing palette.
Eyes	Eyelid Primer	This product keeps shadows from creasing. My staple is Urban Decay's Primer Potion - the original purple tube.
	Eyeshadow Base	These come in different colors. Examples of this is the NYX Jumbo Pencils or the Maybelline 24hr Color Tattoos.
	Eyeshadow Palette	Palettes that have a mix of both matte and shimmer shadows will give you the perfect balance. You can always use drugstore palettes by NYX or Maybelline. You don't have to go with a lot of bright colors. Neutrals are just fine.
	Eyeliner	I use both pencil and gel liner.
	Mascara	Voluminous mascara is my fav.

Gracing Faces MUA Workshop Checklist

	Mascara Spoolies/ Wands	Great for sanitary purposes
	Lashes	Don't pay more than $1.99 for lashes. Find these at your local beauty supply store.
	Lash glue
Brows	Brow Tool	There are many options. I will use a brow pencil before choosing powder or pomade. So it's whatever floats your boat!
	Brow Spoolie	They look like mascara wands. Sometimes they tend to have a double head with a brush on the other end.
	Brow Tint/Set	This usually comes in different shades of brown. ELF has this as well as many other drugstore brands, but lately I've been using the one by MAC in Boy/Girl and Quiet Brunette.
Face
	Face Moisturizer	Cater to your client's skincare needs based on their skintype.
	Face Primer	Cater to your client's skincare needs based on their skintype.
	Foundation	My staple is MAC Studio Fix Fluid. When I started, I built my kit with Revlon Colorstay and L'oreal Truematch.
	Concealer	My go to concealer is MAC Studio Finish Concealer. The NYX Correct Conceal and Contour Palette that comes in Light, Medium and Dark is a great dupe. You can find this at your local beauty supply, Target, or Ulta.
	Contouring cream shades	You can use deeper-toned concealers. I like using the darker shades of Black Opal Foundation Sticks.
	Face Setting and Contour powder	I use MAC mineralize skin finish natural powders.
	Undereye setting powder	LA Colors loose powder (light) is my favorite. It's very comparable to the Ben Nye Banana Powder. You will also need a warmer loose powder for warmer skintones.
	Blush	The blushes by La Femme cosmetics are great and affordable, as well as those by NYX Cosmetics.
	Setting Spray	My favorite is by Scandinavia but others from NYX, Urban Decay, etc will work as well.
Lips	Lip Wands	I usually order these from Ebay, but Q-tips will work, too.
	Lip Stick/Gloss	Our sponsors will provide this, but I love drugstore lipsticks and glosses.
